7

Coffee Stains

Coffee is the fuel that drives most of us through our days but if spilled on shirts or surfaces, it can be difficult to remove.

8

Oil stains (Ketchup, Sauces)

One unfortunate spill of buttered toast or splatter of oily seafood is all it takes to send your favourite clothes to the bin if you don't know how to remove grease stains.

11

Red Wine Stains

Spilling red wine on your new, white shirt is not a look. Wine not? It might not be cool, but it sure can happen.

Kitchen

Maybe the most messiest place in the home the kitchen has stains on nearly every surface around.

Bathroom

As the centre of the home this room needs to stay the most cleanest at all times as it frequently used.

Sweat Stains

We all hate sweat stains on our clothes. It's easy to feel unhygienic and unattractive with unsightly marks around the edges and seams of our garments.

14

Blood Stains

Blood stains can be a pain to remove from your clothes and sheets, especially if the stain is already dry.

10

Dirt Stains

Removing dry stains is hard but possible. The solution to this problem is to soak the stain and use more powerful washing powder to rewash it.
